DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of group I, claims 72-77 in Paper No. 5 is acknowledged.

Newly submitted claims 88-93 are directed to an invention that is independent or distinct from the invention originally claimed for the following reasons: claims 88-93 are a subcombination of the combination claims 72-77 and 82-87. The combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination, the combination does not require the tine to be placed in the ventricle, the subcombination as claimed does not require coupling the lead body to a pulse generator, but only coupling the conductors to a pulse generator.

Since applicant has received an action on the merits for the originally presented invention, this invention has been constructively elected by original presentation for prosecution on the merits. Accordingly, claims 88-93 are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a non-elected invention. See 37 CFR 1.142(b) and MPEP § 821.03.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 87 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 87 is a duplicate of claim 86 and should be canceled or the claim dependency changed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 72-77 and 83-87 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rutten (6148238) in view of Rubin (5476502).

Rutten discloses the claimed invention having a defibrillation electrode in the ventricle with conductive tines for sensing and pacing, with the conductive tines proximate (Websters definition, "approximate", "close" or "very near") to the apex, except for the defibrillation electrode being a defibrillation electrode tip. Rubin teaches that it is known to provide the defibrillation electrode as a defibrillation electrode tip within the apex of the heart to deliver defibrillation energy to minimize the threat of injury to heart tissue and to prevent electrolysis of the blood. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the defibrillation tined electrode as taught by Rutten, with a defibrillation electrode as a defibrillation electrode tip within the apex of the heart as taught by Rubin, since such a modification would provide a defibrillation tined electrode with a defibrillation electrode as a defibrillation electrode tip within the apex of the heart to deliver defibrillation energy to minimize the threat of injury to heart tissue and to prevent electrolysis of the blood.
